the history of education within the franciscan order during the medieval period is presented here in a new light this comprehensive volume offers a new synthesis of franciscan education showing the dynamic development of the franciscan school network between the early thirteenth and the early sixteenth century the organisation of study houses throughout the many franciscan order provinces are discussed as well as the relationship between these franciscan study houses and the medieval universities and the various study programs offered to franciscan students separate chapters are devoted to related issues such as library formation the instruction of homiletic techniques and the formation of franciscan theological schools of thought the work emphasises the dynamics of the franciscan school network and the importance of extra curricular activities in the schools at convent and custodial levels from 1961 to 1989 a committed group of documentary journalists from the national broadcasting company nbc reported the stories of America's overseas conflicts. Stuart Schulberg supplied film evidence to prosecute Nazi war criminals and established documentary units in postwar Berlin and Paris. NBC newsman David Brinkley created the template for prime time news in 1961 and bore the scars to prove it in 1964. Ted Yates and Bob Rogers produced a documentary warning of the pitfalls in Vietnam. Yates was later shot and killed in Jerusalem on the first day of the Six Day War while producing a documentary for NBC News. In Into the Fray, Tom Mascaro vividly recounts the characters and experiences that helped create a unique, colorful documentary film crew based at the Washington Bureau of NBC News from the Kennedy era through the Reagan years. The journalists covered wars, rebellions, the Central Intelligence Agency, covert actions, the Pentagon, military preparedness, and world and American cultures. They braved conflicts and crises to tell the stories that Americans needed to see and hear and, in the process, they changed the face of journalism. Mascaro also looks at the social changes in and around the unit itself, including the struggles and triumphs of women and African Americans in the field of television documentary. Into the Fray is the story of adventure, loyalty to reason and life and death in the service of broadcast journalism.

First published in 2002, An American Health Dilemma is the story of medicine in the United States from the perspective of people who were consistently officially mistreated, abused, or neglected by the Western medical tradition and the US health care system. It is also the compelling story of African Americans fighting to participate fully in the health care professions in the face of racism and the increased power of health corporations and HMOs. This tour de force of research on the relationship between race, medicine, and health care in the United States is an extraordinary achievement by two of the leading lights in the field of public health. Ten years out, it is finally updated with a new third volume taking the story up to the present and beyond, remaining the premiere and only reference on black public health and the history of African American medicine on the market today. No one who is concerned with American race relations, with access to and quality of health care, or with justice and equality for humankind can afford to miss this powerful resource.
